

ROCKET GALLERY

CEDRIC CHRISTIE : OBLIVIOUS TO YOUR OWN CAREER

ROCKET presents a survey exhibition of sculpture by CEDRIC CHRISTIE (b1962) – the artist's third solo exhibition at Rocket after a hiatus of 21 years.

For three decades Cedric Christie has consistently pursued his vision of contemporary sculpture producing minimalist works that defy classification. This exhibition, curated by Jonathan & Sid Stephenson, juxtaposes rare early text works with distinctive steel, aluminium and painted sculptures from all periods up to the present.

'It is the aesthetic of reduction that I am in love with – the aesthetic, for me, is close to the idea of a sentence. No, I don't want to have to write a whole book to say something.' Cedric Christie, Mass, issue 2, 2023

Pink Painting (Disciples of History), 2024

C-Type Photograph

Edition of 12

73.5 x 126.5 cm

In 2007, Cedric took a series of 12 vehicles to Documenta 12. Each vehicle representing the directors and the artists included from the corresponding quinquennial exhibitions. The door numbers represented which iteration of Documenta the vehicle was honouring. Later, the vehicles were crushed and the "Pink Painting" is the last remaining record of this project.

Ascenseur Pour L'Échafaud (Lift to the Scaffold) was a French film that Miles Davis composed the music for. It is said he was able to compose and perform the score within a matter of a few hours. He took notes while watching a rough cut of the film and then invited four fellow musicians without preparation to record it in one sitting.
